It was a lovely night in Kyoto, except in the Shinsengumi Headquarters because Chizuru Yukimuraâ€|no _Mrs. Chizuru Hijikata _was giving birth to her child. It had been 2 years since her imprisonment, but now this was her home. Toshizou Hijikata's hands were being crushed. All the other head captains were thankful that they were not in their Demon vice Commander's place. They came to give the awaiting father moral support.

"I see a head!" the midwife yelled. Chizuru pushed harder and harder; a fountain of fresh tears falling down from the intense pain of childbirth.

After a few more pushes, the headquarters are filled with the echoes of a newborn baby. Everyone suddenly became concerned over the new mother's health especially the father of the child who held on to her protectively, and rubbing a cool wet towel on her forehead.

"Congratulations! You have a healthy baby girl!" the midwife wrapping the baby in a lavender blanket that the vice commander personally bought; though no one knew. Taking his daughter in his arms his mouth arched up in loving smile. "Hello there my little Sakura." Hijikata said kissing her on the forehead. He let out a soft chuckle when she opened her gorgeous purple eyes, staring into his eyes too. Everyone was staring at their vice commander in awe, at how loving and caring he was being. She was basically a photocopy of her father; the purple eyes and black silky hair.

"Sakura Hijikata huh? I love it." Chizuru smiled.

Deciding to leave the new family in private Kondo-san and the rest of the surrogate gave their congrats and left.

"Chizuru." She looked up into his warm eyes, then his lips brushing against her soft ones.

"Thank you." He told her gently.

"Toshi." She looked up smiling tearfully.

Hijikata then lays Sakura next to her mother. "Sakura, I finally get to see you, you look so beautiful." Chizuru said tiredly.

"Rest my love." Hijikata said. Chizuru's eyes closed. Hijikata changes into his sleeping robe, and untying his hair. Lying down on the futon next to his wife he kisses her hands, and snuggles Sakura close to him.

"_You will always be loved." _
